Local talents on show at Spring Arts Exhibition

by David Hallett

With so many events cancelled at the Nimbin School of Arts this year, it's great to have the Spring Arts Exhibition actually open.

This 30th annual exhibition has more art and more artists involved than any previous show, and it features a spectacular diversity of the visual arts.

Highlight of this year's exhibition is the textile and fashion works of Juliska Rado's hemp designs; Amy Rosenberg's installation and Wendy Cartwright's weaving, all new artists to the show.

Then there is the stunning series of Top Gallery paintings by Bundjalung artists Gilbert Laurie, Daniel Wilson and Douglas Wilson, plus newcomer Oral Laurie in the main auditorium.

Longtime exhibitor Franco Girardi once again has another brilliant heavy metal installation, while two-time Peoples' Choice winner Jen Harkness features on the main stage display... and not to miss the coffin by Aiti-Marin Kardiono... and Moksha's woven baskets... and Deb Guest's sculptures... and much more.

This is a wonderful exhibition for Nimbin locals and visitors, and once again it shows the incredible depth and diversity of creative talents in the Nimbin valley.

The Spring Arts Exhibition is open daily until Sunday 11th October from 10am to 4pm, and there will be a series of grand piano and other music recitals.

For artists interested in exhibiting in next year's exhibition, registration forms will be available in July 2021.
