

ASTRO forecasts

by Tina Mews

what's happening in the heavens?

Aries

The key question is when to be assertive and pushing forward with your own goals and when to cooperate with others. Mars, the ruling planet of Aries, journeys through Gemini for the next six months, kindling your desire for fiery debates. Consider that you may not see the entire picture and leave space for surprising revelations.

Taurus

The emphasis is on finding the right balance between work and relaxation since Venus transits through Libra (until October 24th) and you may want to be more social and enjoy life. The New Moon eclipse on October 25th could mark important changes in your relationships, personal or professional, strengthening those ones that are solid and satisfying and ending those that do not fit anymore.

Gemini

What is purely vision and what can be realised? Mars journeys through Gemini for the next 6 months providing you with an extra boost of mental energy. Don't forget to pause at times, withdraw and reflect on your actions and direction. A calm and disciplined step-by-step approach will lead to success and helps with maintaining your energy reservoir.

Cancer

The focus is on home and strengthening your foundation. This could be a good time for a journey down memory lane which then empowers you to reach for your dreams. Reflect on your talents, skills and aspirations and risk expressing yourself creatively. Align yourself with your 'inner witness' and trust this process of renewal and regeneration.

Leo

Communication plays a key role right now, especially the conversation you have with your community, neighbours and siblings. Make sure that you have understood the other person's view fully before drawing definite conclusions. The solar eclipse on October 25th might mark important endings and new beginnings in your family relationships.

Virgo

During the next six months you may want to spend extra time on reflecting on your greater goals and life direction. You are entering an important process of re-orientation where your priorities are shifting. Revisit your values and needs so that they align with the reality that you are living in now. Take stock of the immediate support that is available to you.

October

Since the last equinox (September 22) the Sun has travelled through Libra, the sign concerned with balance and harmony. Libra has a strong sense of beauty, justice and fairness demonstrating a natural talent for mediating and negotiation. Aries is the sign opposite Libra, and the Aries-Libra axis describes the tension that exists in all relationships: the struggle to find a balance between individual freedom and autonomy as well as the support, connection and appreciation we need from others.

October starts with an opposition between the Libra Sun in conjunction with Venus and Jupiter in Aries inspiring optimism and bringing opportunities for social interactions. The catch is not to promise more than one can deliver. Venus' stay in Libra until October 24th will help with attracting cooperation and peaceful problem solving.

Mercury in Virgo stations direct on October 3rd after its 3-week retrograde journey. The Messenger planet is in opposition to nebulous Neptune until October 6th, blurring our vision and making us vulnerable for deception and disappointment if our expectations have been set too high. We are asked to tap into our intuition instead.

The Aries Full Moon on October 10th is conjunct Chiron and opposite the Venus/Sun conjunction in Libra, which is forming a square with the Black Moon Lilith in Cancer. This formation highlights relationship issues as well as felt injustices – past and present – that have not been healed or balanced out. Hurt feelings need addressing; it is wise to tell our truth in an assertive and direct way while staying respectful towards the needs and experiences of others. If we are aligned with the 'inner witness', we might detect in our own reactions some long-standing family patterns and childhood wounds. When we centre ourselves and remain objective, we will avoid being overtaken by our own shadow. Saturn forms a harmonious sextile with the Full Moon addressing the issue of responsibly moving forward by being organised and using our common sense.

The New Moon in Scorpio on October 25th is also a partial solar eclipse followed by a total lunar eclipse in Taurus on November 8th. Eclipses are supercharged New Moons (solar eclipses) and Full Moons (lunar eclipses). They are harbingers of change and often coincide with important endings and new beginnings, especially if they interact with a natal chart, may this be the birth chart of a person, an event, or a nation. Eclipses take place on the same sign axis over a period of 18 months to 2 years emphasising strengths and weaknesses while intensifying the affairs of these signs. The current eclipses fall in the signs of Taurus and Scorpio until October 2023 (since November 2021) highlighting themes to do with material security, food and shelter (Taurus) versus issues of survival and renewal (Scorpio).

Taurus and Scorpio are fixed signs, determined and committed to their cause. Taurus builds form for security, comfort and stability, while Scorpio breaks down the fixed structures to allow the growth and new life, hence the death/rebirth process. Uranus, planet of change and disruption has been transiting Taurus since 2018 (until 2025/6) destabilising key areas of our personal and collective lives and challenging our comfort zones. Ultimately, Uranus can turn change into opportunity and opens new pathways for real progress to happen.

The solar eclipse falls on the 2nd degree of Scorpio, is closely conjunct Venus in Scorpio and widely opposite Uranus. It might trigger deeply buried emotions and insecurities around self-worth and trust. On the positive, this could be an opportunity to redefine concepts of self and the roles we play or how we express our power in the world. It is a good time for cleaning up our act, releasing old grudges and giving up unhelpful attitudes and habits. Events that occur near eclipses are of major importance, unpredictable and fated, especially when taking place 7 – 10 days before a solar eclipse. Decisions that we make or projects that are started during this period might work out differently to our expectations.

The eclipse is ruled by Mars in Gemini. Mars, planet of drive and conflict is a key player in the current cosmic drama. Mars stations retrograde on October 30th and will be retrograde until January 12th, 2023. Mars is in a square with Neptune in Pisces since the beginning of the month obscuring our sense of direction while highlighting the challenges between vision and realisation. We might feel overwhelmed when having to make concrete decisions possibly dreaming of too many different things at once. This square will be active until early December. Both planets are in mutable signs which encourage flexibility and adaptability but also restlessness, escapism and goals that are too elusive to reach.

Mars in mental Gemini likes debates and when fired up can use words as weapons. Nevertheless, Saturn in Aquarius can give some stabilising support and discipline and will help with giving form to our visions if we are willing to put in the work.

Libra

This is the beginning of your yearly cycle. Venus, the cosmic harmoniser, is on your side attracting favourable social interactions as well as opportunities for developing workable plans. This is a good period for inventing new strategies and being creative about putting ideas into reality. You can achieve both: promoting inner growth as well as material security

Scorpio

The next solar eclipse will occur in Scorpio (October 25th), making this an important period for change and renewal. This is an opportunity to redefine and refine your self-image, which then can have a positive influence on your relationships with others. It is a good time for tying loose ends, cleaning out the old and giving up bad habits.

Sagittarius

Mars in Gemini, your opposite sign, will be an important player for you over the next six months bringing challenges through interactions with others. Conversations can be inspiring or conflicting depending on how much you can embrace others' points of view. Allow extra time for introspection and reflection especially during the last week of the month.

Capricorn

This is a period when diplomacy and careful negotiation can bring in the harvest that you have been working for. New social opportunities might come your way if you can reign in your need of being in control and having to micromanage everyone and everything. Group interests and community involvement become more important by the end of the month.

Aquarius

You have proven that you are organised and can work consistently, which are two important ingredients for success. This is a time when you can take on more responsibilities with a sense of ease because your confidence has grown. Over the next six months, you may find that you enjoy leadership roles as you search for positive outlets for your enterprising nature.

Pisces

You have great creative abilities if you tap into your reservoir of spiritual power and vision. Nevertheless, this is a confusing time when your sense of self feels challenged by circumstances beyond your control. Be aware that your physical and mental energies can be easily depleted if you take on too much. Instead continue with your lifelong exploration of wisdom and truth.

Life continues...

by Marilyn Devlin

I feel like I just want to sleep. Cozy up in my little space... lock the doors and keep the noise out. The accumulated weight of everything... we find our way through every day. Wanting to be left alone... to sink into a snooze. To celebrate the moments breath comes in and out. Remind myself what a gift I am... to me. Through it all. The obstacles and challenges, the awe inspiring Nature... the beauty, the stillness... the Life behind life. The Grace behind breath. This chance we have to be here.

2022 is winding down... we enter the last quarter. It tends to speed up and get a bit chaotic... racing to finish things. Before what? Then all of a sudden everything stops... Oz is on holidays. Must be a shock for the body... full speed then grabbing the hand brake. You get to feel it in a holiday town... the bottled up adrenaline panicking for a place of release. It's pretty intense for the first few days.

This year was a big one... like the last years that preceded it. We've pretty much experienced it all... although I'm sure there's more on its way. No wonder I want to sleep. And I've never been a napper... I never liked to waste the day. I think I just might take up napping though... it's sure to do wonders for my nervous system.

Looking back over the years... when did the intensity start building? When did we leave one life behind and find ourselves manoeuvred into another? Was there a distinct crossing? Or just gradual implements.

I always remember 2007... the awesome August Blood Red Full Moon Total Eclipse. I watched it in its entirety. Next morning I went out on the back deck... up in the Border Ranges... and saw it with my very own eyes. Everything had changed. I mean everything. How did it do that? What did it mean? What was that crossing? Which way were we turned?

Then there was 2012... full of Faeries, wandering Ancestors and Nature Spirits... dancing visibly. What a cosmic year that was. It was when Magick manifested in full bloom. Veils lifted revealing other worlds. I'll never forget that year.

2019... my god the fires. Devastation on such a scale... our hearts broken. I don't think we ever really get over these things... they all leave a piece of themselves in us. A chunk out of our hearts.

2020... well hello Covid. Everything involved with that invasive visitor. The chaos, fear, separation, isolation, judgement, division, sickness, death. Lands and families torn asunder. And we're here to tell the tale. What I won't forget is the magical miracle of Nature as she transformed into a rare vision of purity.

2021... the virus continued to rule our lives. We were becoming pro's at adapting. We made up our own minds. We looked after ourselves.

2022... the results of the virus and treatments continued to play out... some heartbreaking moments of deep cellular shock. The Floods followed... well we're all still adapting. We know that's just the beginning. We adapt some more... we find our new ways.

No wonder I'm tired. No wonder I want to sleep. Lock the doors, keep the noise out. Such a noisy world we create.

I luv the silence... the quiet. I have for as long as I remember. Silence is never silent... it's alive with Life and presence. It dances, it loves, it holds you... it's like the dearest friend... it cuddles up to you. It gives you space to be your wonderful... it never demands or expects anything. You get to witness it. It's my favourite thing... I luv silence. Of course it's not silent... how can it be? When it's filled with everything. I get to celebrate its existence... and my existence to witness it. Living is good.

Questions

1. This is the Museum of Pop Culture, also known as MoPOP but affectionately referred to by many locals as the Blob. Which city do these locals call home? Hint: The institution was founded by Paul Allen, the other Microsoft billionaire, and had an emphasis on the work of a famous musician from the city. Take a bonus point each if you can name the architect and the musician. (Image credit: see answer)
2. Ada, Cardana, Ethereum and Shiba Inu are all varieties of what?
3. Of the seven dwarves that Snow White used to hang out with, whose name begins with B?
4. Mount Coot-tha is a prominent geographical feature boasting a lookout and restaurant with uninterrupted views of which Australian capital city?
5. National representative team the Opals represent Australia in which sport? Take a bonus point if you can name the player back in the team after a nine-year absence.
6. How many moons orbit the planet Mars?
7. Italian cheeses last months. Now for some bread to go with them. What is the Italian white bread used for Panini? With unique holes, this bread is made from wheat flour, water, salt, yeast and olive oil. It was first created in 1982.
8. Psychedelic Purple is a fluorescent pigment created in the late 1960s for use in black light artwork. It was very popular among hippies and, indeed, the favourite colour of, perhaps, the biggest psychedelic musician of the times. Can you name this famous artist? This colour also has another name taken from a flower. Take a bonus point if you can name it.
9. What is an eponym?
10. Speaking of maverick, Maury Maverick, son of Samuel featured in last month's quiz, also coined a word inspired by an animal when he left Texas for Washington during World War II. He made up the word gobbledygook to describe the fog of words he encountered working for federal agencies there. What was the animal?

- ### Answers
1. MoPOP is in Seattle. Originally opened in 2000 as the Experience Music Project, the EMP was designed by Frank Gehry to resemble a smashed guitar. The musician was Seattle-ite Jimi Hendrix. (Image by: Ken Lambert/The Seattle Times)
  2. Digital currency, like Bitcoin.
  3. Bashful.
  4. Brisbane.
  5. The Opals are currently competing in the Women's Basketball World Cup. Lauren Jackson is back in the team at 41 years of age.
  6. Mars has two moons, Phobos and Deimos but they are nothing like our own Moon. At about 3,500km in diameter, the Moon is over a quarter of Earth's diameter. That's about the width of Australia. Phobos is just over 22km across, and Deimos is less than 13km.
  7. Ciabatta is made with strong flour, high in gluten, that is formed into a wetter dough than is usual in bread making.
  8. Jimi Hendrix. Psychedelic purple is also known as phlox. There was once a Jimi Hendrix museum in San Francisco painted this colour.
  9. An eponym is a word derived from someone's name such as Marxism or Maverick.
  10. Inspired by the turkey, gobbledygook, in Maverick's words, means "talk or writing which is long, pompous, vague, involved, usually with Latinised words."

Virus chat

by Jane Foundling

A conversation between different viruses, set in a science laboratory. Any scientific facts are completely accidental.

Abbreviations: C= Corona, D= Delta, O= Omicron, MP= Monkey Pox, P=Polio, S= Syphilis

C: G'day Delta, how yer going, been anywhere nice lately?

D: Good to see yer Corona, haven't seen you around for ages. Yeah I've been on a world cruise.

C: Any good?

D: It was good, just wave after wave.

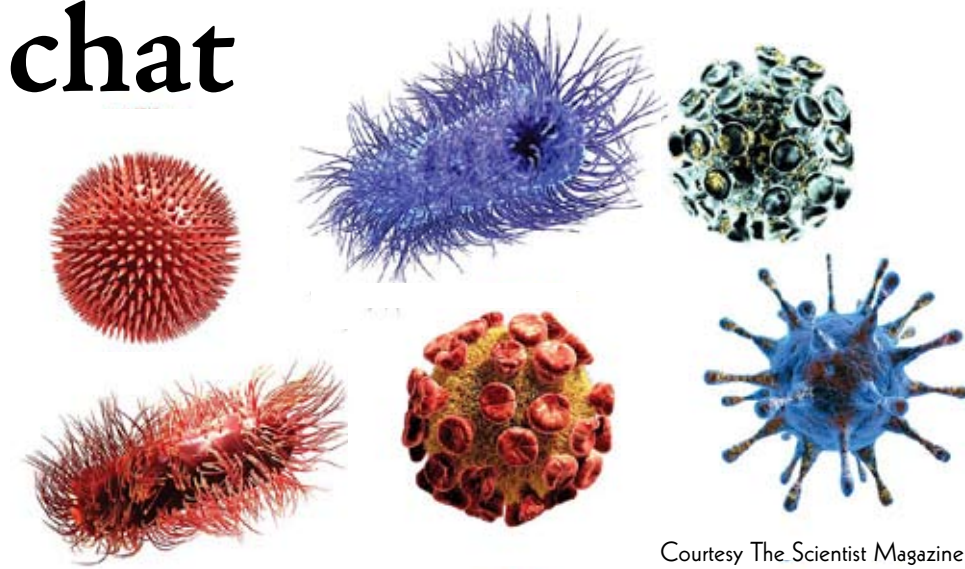

C: Really. Did you meet any good hosts?

D: Hosts were really good, it was like being on a roller coaster, one good sneeze and I was everywhere. Great fun and the food was very cosmopolitan.

C: Better than in here then.

D: Yeah, you get just enough in here, but it leaves you wanting more.

C: I've tasted much better nucleic acid. The market in Wuhan was pretty tasty, plenty of variety especially when I found my way into that human thing, my taste buds really exploded. Boy what a party I had, up all day and night and ended up producing thousands of offsprings and then sent them merrily on their way,

Courtesy The Scientist Magazine

I've heard some of them have mutated.

O: Is that you Corona 65910? I think we might be related. I'd recognise those protein spikes anywhere, such a lovely shade of orange.

C: Well, I never, it's my cousin 5000 times removed. I do recognise that spike. Welcome bro.

MP: Can you Covid mob keep the noise down, I've got a headache?

C: Oh. It's the new kid off the block. All it does is party, party!

O: Yeah, I think it has ADHD it can't keep still. Been to any good raves lately M.P.

MP: Yeah man! It's been the summer of loving, can't get enough of it. Don't know how I ended up in here though.

D: You've got to be careful around those monkey infections, they give us viruses a bad name, so virulent.

MP: I've heard it all now! Us monkeys get the blame for everything, for infections we had nothing to do with.

O: I heard it was the Americans who let loose that HIV virus.

P: Listen, you new fibberty jibberts, I've been listening to those conspiracy theories for donkeys' years, don't believe a word of it.

C: Thought you were well dead, Polio.

P: Not quite, there's always someone who lets us in, you can't keep a good virus down.

D: I think there might be a virus kind of a thing in that human abacus thing, a blue light keeps coming off and on.

MP: Yeah, it keeps flashing at me, I think it might have taken a liking to me.

O: I think it might one of those cyber space intergalactic viruses, best stay away from it, you don't know where its been, or going to.

S: They used to say that about me, but I know how to party, just like you MP.

MP: Maybe we should invite it to a party, what do you say Syphilis.

S: Yeah, we could have a virtual viral shindig, don't bring any of them awful sheath things.

D: Oh, oh, I'm starting to feel funny, what's happening to me?

O: You're growing a new spike.

D: Yes, I can feel its eruption, there's more coming. Oh my god, I'm mutating. Let me out of here, I want to make babies!

The staff and students at Coffee Camp Public School have had a fabulous Term 3.

We started the term by celebrating NAIDOC Day with Goolmangar Public School. Students participated in a variety of activities including song and dance, storytelling, face painting and the creation of traditional games.

We have participated in many sporting events including our school athletics carnival, the Terania District athletics carnival, Teams Day at The Channon and had two students represent our school in the Small School combined soccer team.

All students are to be congratulated for the high level of sportsmanship they displayed at these events.

We celebrated Education Week by dressing up as our 'future self' and Azura was recognised with an Education Week award at the Lismore ceremony.

In the classroom we have also been having a lot of fun focusing on reading, writing, maths, art and STEM. Our junior class have been using the STEM design process to create a chair for the favourite toy. Our senior class have been using clay to create pencil holders and sketching in nature.

Kian Berry

Nimbin Artists Gallery

by Cath Marshall Principal

It was with a great deal of pleasure that we were able to nominate students, staff and community for Education Week Awards for 2022. These awards are considered on contribution to the improvement of student learning, demonstrated contribution to enhancing the quality of school life for staff and students and demonstrated positive contribution to the whole school community. The successful nominations in the student category were Kian Berry and Jasper Hawkins; in the staff category Tina Cudmore and Corey Wheeler; and in the community category The Nimbin Artists Gallery and the Nimbin Good Times for their ongoing support of public education in general and Nimbin Central in particular. Congratulations to all our award winners. They are all very well deserved and we greatly appreciate them.

Tumble Falls pre-schoolers often trudge around the community. It's not unfamiliar for their bare feet and pitter-pattering footsteps and giggles to be heard around the valley. It's also a regular sight to see them foraging around in the creek. They know the valley well... With gum boots and backpacks they ventured north to the forest track that leads up into the Nightcap National Park. As they were just starting to get a spring in their step they noticed something had changed: the familiar forest track, lined with palms and buttressing Quandong roots was unrecognisable. The road washed away leaving a bare creek bed. They scaled over new boulders and logs, weaved around wobbly rocks and slid down exposed clay banks. Their puzzled faces looking for signs of what had caused the landscape to change. Was it giants? What is a bulldozer? Or dinosaurs? As they rounded a bend where the log bridge once was, they saw it. A three-metre high beaver dam blocking the usual route of the Tumble creek. Hundreds of trees tangled together like a dreadlock preventing the creek to flow along its usual course and redirecting the gigantic mass of water down the road. Further along another landslip. The children sat with the creek for some time, witnessing the new water flow and listening to the birds. Their little hands started digging up some fresh clay from the earth and tickling beneath the water to find freshly exposed rocks. Their faces softened as they connected back into the nurturing land. Upon returning to school they have participated in storytelling and art play to express their feeling and emotions about the floods. "Why are we still talking about the flood?" My four-year old son asks curiously. "It wasn't a normal flood, my love, it wasn't a normal flood at all." Thank you Tumble Falls Preschool for recognising and supporting the children to see, to feel, to talk, to dance and heal.

by Emily Jett

At the core of Tumble Falls Community School's ethos is a commitment to delivering the curriculum in a dynamic and authentic environment. This is clearly evident during our quarterly Garden Day celebrations. On these days the children, parents and staff come together in mixed groups and rotate through gardening, cooking and art activities. It is such a joy to see the older children guiding younger ones, and younger ones enthusing older ones with their insatiable curiosity and energy. We celebrate the changes in our natural world, producing our own food and our diversity. Throughout the day children weave in many cross-curricula learning experiences and encourage each other's success. Parents are thrilled to be part of their children's learning and are able to share their skills and wisdom too. It is very special to sit down to our delicious shared feasts on these days and to see the strong connections building between people, place and learning. During our recent Term 3 Garden Day we pitched in to harvest and cook an enormous taro, cooked up delicious nachos, made fabulous clay faces for our forest trees and even had a small Holi festival. Even the kookaburras and pythons came to appreciate the experience! On Saturday 29th October we will be opening the school and celebrating our School Fete. Everyone in the wider community and those interested in joining our school is invited. There will be market stalls, food, children's activities and open classrooms. # Women's 5th league Grand Final win

by Nigel Hayes

As coach I'd like to give thanks – what a fantastic finish to a fabulous season.

Drawing on their confidence after practising penalty shots and saves at training, Katie steps up calm and composed, clips her penalty into the left corner, dances her way back to the team huddle.

Jakari saves the opposition's shot, G advances so sure, serene and settled and slots a wonder goal top right corner post, bar and in, Jakari saves again.

Then Sarah eases her way to the hotspot, relaxed, ready and relishing the moment – another goal and WE WIN!

I am so pleased for this team and this result. We played hard all year but more importantly each and every game we played for each other, for fun, for fitness, for family and for friendship.

We also played with injury and through pain – thanks Jakari, thanks Jericho, thanks Anna, thanks Melody... and special thanks Ash for that last game GF effort.

Also big thanks to the newbies to the team Cienna and Ellen – a big age difference there but same levels of commitment, passion and pride! Thanks to our go-go-gal and golden boot Lani Clover – what a dynamo!

Thanks to Phoebe for the regular and special goals, the training tips and the traveling time. Thanks Lishia for your energy and for always picking yourself back up off the ground and giving your all...

and to Marlaina for never stopping, ever willing, always smiling.

Thanks to Grace for sharing her joy and making her mark on the team... and to Nahani for supporting us when needed!

And last but not least, thanks to Carol the beating heart of the team, so consistent so committed and so concerned for others.

You are wonder women, one and all!

I give thanks for being included in the team, for being listened to at training, for being 'obeyed' at the games, and for being accepted as an integral part of the greatest team that has ever taken the field in the history of football!

I am so proud of you all and so pleased for you all. I love you all to bits – go the fabulous Fifths!

Jubilant team members arrive back in Nimbin with their medals.

Wrapping up the 2022 Season

by Lucy White

2022 has been a season to remember for the Nimbin Headers.

Five out of seven of our competitive teams made it to semi finals and our League 5 women won the grand final in a gripping game filled with glory and guts.

As always there is so much going on behind the scenes. Our upcoming AGM is at the end of October (see details at right), and we invite those who are keen to get involved to make contact and express their interest in filling one of the many positions.

To the generous local businesses who support our club by sponsoring a kit, providing prizes for the weekend raffles, donating their goods and services for free to help maintain our club, or offering ongoing financial support, we thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

We are truly humbled to be integrated in such a wonderful community.

To the dedicated coaches who step up throughout the season, thank you so much – we couldn't do it without you.

All our volunteers tirelessly contribute to the club throughout the season in the range of ways that are needed: grounds maintenance, building maintenance, arranging and running raffles, running the canteen, administrative and creative tasks, and applying for grants to ensure we have a club that can keep up with the demands of a growing community.

Massive thanks to our wonderful committee of dedicated volunteers, for all that you do for our club and our community.

Particular thanks goes to Ruben Mack, the best club president there ever was! His commitment to the Headers is inspiring and he gives so much of his time, resources and passion to ensuring that the Headers grows and thrives.

We really hope that 2023 will see us shine bigger and brighter than ever!

Please support the Headers by following us on Facebook, Instagram, joining the tennis club, or signing up early for soccer next season when registrations open.
